From the Rector

Arise, shine; for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you.
- Isaiah 60:1

Certain passages of scripture have a way circling back and speaking anew at different times and in different places. As this verse from Isaiah came to me – not least because it is included in the first lesson for the Feast of the Epiphany, the season the church now enters – I thought it would be good to see if I had used it before in a newsletter. The answer is yes. Five years ago, in January 2009, I began my newsletter with this same quote.

At that time I wrote about the development of St. Michael's five-year strategic plan. I made note then that "the words 'strategic planning' do not engender the same inspiration or reception of God's glory as do Isaiah's eloquent words." All the same, the work of individuals and committees over these past years have brought for the light of mission and ministry at St. Michael's. That five-year plan was initiated to bring the parish to its 300th Anniversary year. We are now here. There is much to celebrate: our successful capital campaign to enhance our building which enhances our mission and ministry; our years of proclaiming the gospel, of entering into relationships, building community and serving others; and our historic building, to name a few.

Isaiah's words resonate as much now as they did five years ago, and as they did thousands of years ago. In the context of its time, Isaiah speaks of a new era to dawn on Jerusalem and the nation after a period of exile and return. We may not have been in exile per se, but we are invited to return again and again. There is a lifting ("arise!"), and an affirmation ("shine") that God is with us, both as individuals and as a people. Epiphany is a season of such growth, understanding and revelation. The word itself means "manifestation." It is an invitation for the manifestation of Christ in our hearts and in our lives. This is an ever evolving process. It is aided by our fellowship, service, study, worship and prayer. All of these are part of our ongoing mission and vision, and lead us into this celebration year and the parish's fourth century.

Welcome 2014! And in this season of Epiphany, welcome the light of Christ.

- Fr. Andrew

Church School—from Kelley Howells

What a busy season we have had in Church School! The Godly Play Group has been learning about Advent and the Christmas story. The Weaving God's Promises group has been learning about the promises of Isaiah, the Christmas Story, and John the Baptist.

The Pageant

Both groups came together to work on our wonderful Christmas Pageant! Children met for three rehearsals and also worked to memorize and practice their parts at home. They even made time to rehearse during a very busy week after one rehearsal was canceled due to snow. The hard work of the children really paid off in a reflective yet joyous portrayal of the Christmas story right here at St. Michael's on Christmas Eve.

We were also the first beneficiaries of the new church sound system! Thanks to Steve Clay who got the new microphones here and set up in time for our dress rehearsal. Children were also treated to a wonderful Pageant cast party thanks to organizers Kaki Ianchulev and Paige Hintlian.

There are so many people to thank for their help on the pageant, that I could fill this newsletter if I tried to name them all! Please know that your efforts on behalf of the children of St. Michael's Parish are deeply appreciated. I must however mention Jess Petty, who was instrumental in helping me write the new Pageant script that we used this year, and Gillian Petty and Milena Connolly for all of their hard work on costumes. Thank you so much!

Results of the Dec. Outreach Programs: MHD Food Pantry & Mitten Tree

In December, the children and families of St. Michael's Church participated in the drive to help Marbleheaders enjoy a special holiday meal this Christmas. Groups led by Sue Cool, Christy Honos, and Karin McCarthy, formed teams that shopped with Market Basket Gift cards and delivered all the ingredients for a wonderful dinner for the families served by the Marblehead Food Pantry. This effort was organized by Linda Smidt, thank you Linda!

Children and their families also participated in the annual St. Michael's Mitten Tree. This year about 50 gifts were donated to brighten the holidays of those less fortunate. They were delivered to the Marblehead Food Pantry and to Making Ends Meet. This effort was spearheaded by Diane Christian, thank you Diane!

I would also like to take a moment to give thanks. First I'd like to thank Steve Clay for his hours of work purchasing and setting up the new church school computer, it would be impossible to work efficiently without it! I'd also like to thank Frances Nilsson for generously purchasing some new books to assist me in my position as Church School Director. Thank you both!

Church School in January

Upcoming, Church School will be using a one-room school house model until the beginning of Lent as we learn about the life of Jesus. In January, we will learn about Jesus' early years, his disciples, teachings and the miracles he performed.

Volunteers Needed!

Now is the perfect time to join us as a Church School volunteer if you haven't before. Please consider this worthwhile opportunity to share your gifts, and be part of the children's religious education experience here at St. Michael's. We really need your help!

During the winter we conduct religious education in a one-room schoolhouse model. It isn't hard, please give it a try if you haven't already! We will need two adults each week. The Storyteller position is the job for the person leading the lesson. The lesson is all set up for you and I will get you a copy in advance. The Activity Leader is the person who helps with a craft, which will be all set up for you also. This person also helps setting up snacks and taking care of odds and ends as they come up. Please consider volunteering and sign up on the St. Michael's Sign-Up Genius or contact Kelley at kelley@stmichaels1714.org

Church School Outreach: "Souper Bowl of Caring", Feb. 2

Also in January, we will begin working on our annual St. Michael's "Souper Bowl of Caring". The mission of the "Souper Bowl of Caring" to use "the energy of the Super Bowl to mobilize youth in a united national effort to care for people in their local communities who are hungry and those in need." On behalf of St. Michael's, the youth of our parish will collect canned goods and money to donate locally to the Marblehead Food Pantry. To contribute to this endeavor, just drop off unexpired non-perishables to our food pantry box at any time, or make a cash donation to our soup pot on "Souper Bowl" Sunday, February 2, 2014.

May you have a happy and healthy new year!

Stewards of the Month—Starr & Bob Campbell

Starr Campbell is a life-long Episcopalian who grew up in a little country church with a low service. "I was not comfortable with the high service," she says, "so Bob and I attended St. Andrews for a while." About two years ago, she decided to give the close by St. Michael's another try and now she says, "We enjoy being part of Father Andrew's flock." Starr says she is constantly awed by the choir and the beautiful music of the church. As a boy, Bob Campbell sang in St. Michael's choir, earning a nickel or quarter each Sunday to do so. However, after he left for college, it would be 35 years before he moved back to Marblehead.

Starr and Bob help out with the Lobster Luncheon; she bakes for the Christmas fair, and knits shawls for the Knitting Ministry.

They are busy volunteering. Bob works with SCORE, a service corps of retired executives, that helps new businesses get started and grow. He also rings the bell for the Salvation Army kettle at Crosby's during the holiday season. Starr volunteers as an ombudsman for three area nursing homes, advocating for the residents. A former chair of the town recycling committee for seven years, she remains involved. "When I get involved, I find it hard to let go," she says.

Before she retired, Starr was a marriage and family therapist with an agency and she also had a home office. Bob was with IBM for 31 years in human resources. During those years, they moved many times, to Michigan, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Minnesota, so when they retired they could finally choose where to live. They considered Maine, Connecticut, and Florida, but decided on Marblehead. "We are living in our 12th house," says Starr.

However, once retired, Bob joined a staffing company for professionals as their senior vice-president for North America and after 14 years, he retired three years ago for a second time.

They have a daughter Heather who with her husband Jay lives here in town with their two daughters, Amanda 12 and Brooke 9. Their son Erik and his wife Leonora live in Connecticut with their two sons, Brandon 17 and Hunter 15.

In their spare time, the Campbells like to golf and are members of The Tedesco Country Club. Starr plays bridge and belongs to a garden club. Starr mentions another member of the family, Brie, a shelter dog, who is Bob's closest companion.

St. Michael's Episcopal Church Marblehead, Massachusetts

Our Mission is to seek transformation in God's grace by worshipping God in prayer, song, and study; loving and serving our neighbor in and outside our parish Community; and being good stewards of God's creation.

Our Vision is to be a Mission-driven Episcopal congregation that by 2014 will be widely recognized as a vibrant, open, and inviting community, known for liturgically-centered worship and music, for lifelong learning, for pastoral presence and service to communities near and far, for good stewardship of our resources, and for celebration of our legacy as an historic church.

Supply Priests and Thomas S. W. Mott, Rector, 1825-1827

When Lot Jones left St. Michael's in June 1823, St. Michael's had won the battle to stay an Episcopal Church, but was still struggling financially. Various ministers in the area "supplied the desk" at St. Michael's including Dr. Henry William Ducachet (1797-1865), a physician and deacon serving at St. Peter's in Salem. In an 1866 memorial of Ducachet, the Rev. Ferdinand Ewer wrote "It was his custom, moreover, often to go to the neighboring and quaint old town of Marblehead, where he held service in St. Michael's Church, which had been so long vacant that the parish was almost extinct. To one who remembers the prejudice existing at that day in Massachusetts against the Church, it is an indication of Dr. Ducachet's efficiency and a proof of the wisdom of Bishop Griswold in ordaining him, that in less than a year he succeeded, even by such occasional services as he was able to render, in reviving the parish, and he was cheered at seeing, before he left Massachusetts for the South, the Rev. T. S. W. Mott called as its minister. Permit me to mention as an evidence of his zeal, that Dr. Ducachet's services at Marblehead were voluntarily entered upon and were entirely gratuitous."

Indeed, by March 1825, the Vestry felt able to consider calling a minister at its annual meeting. A committee was formed to call the "Rev. Mr. Leonard," probably the fully ordained Rev. George Leonard who was currently serving two parishes on opposite sides of the Connecticut River in Windsor, VT, where Lot Jones had been ordained, and Cornish, NH. The parish did not receive Leonard's refusal until 13 June 1825. The Vestry's next choice was Thomas Smith Webb Mott, who had just been ordained deacon on May 3rd, 1825 at St. Paul's in Boston.

The Rev. Mott was born on July 28, 1800 in Preston, Nova Scotia, the son of John Mott of Nova Scotia and Deborah Webb, the daughter of a Massachusetts Loyalist who had moved to Nova Scotia. Thomas Mott graduated from Brown University in 1822 and then attended the Andover Theological Seminary, graduating in 1825. On June 27, 1825, the Rev. Mr. Mott reported that he "would become their regular Minister for the sum of five hundred dollars per annum and that he would never leave the Parish until they were supplied with another minister." (St. Michael's Records 1799-1833, p. 111)

With Ralph H. French Esquire and Samuel R. Trevett as wardens, dedicated Vestry members and the Rev. Mr. Mott, St. Michael's gradually improved. In April 1826, William Reed proposed that pews owned by non-parishioners be exempt from taxation until sold, but this motion was permanently postponed. In December a committee began to consider needed repairs. And at the April

1827 annual meeting, William Reed "relinquished to the Parish all his Pews and interest in the Parish with all the sums that had been paid as rents..." (Records, p. 116)

But by then Mott's health was not good and he appears to have gone to Providence, RI, perhaps to consult Bishop Griswold. On June 4, 1827 Mott wrote that the Parish needed a priest who could perform both morning and evening services, and in his present condition, he was not up to the task. He did mention that he would put in a word with the "missionary society to make as large an appropriation as possible for the ensuing year in the hope that God in his good Providence may send you some worthier minister of his grace." (Records, p. 119) The Parish accepted his resignation, and Mott sailed to Nova Scotia to visit family.

In the fall of 1827 Mott preached at Christ Church, Gardiner, ME and was invited to preach for the next three months. But by November his health had again declined. Mott headed south and preached at St. James in Wilmington, NC. He then returned to Maine by August 1828 for Maine's convention where he helped draft a constitution for a State Sunday School Union. By the winter of 1828-29, Mott had again returned South for his health, this time as a missionary to St. Simon's Island, GA and Lot Jones stood in for him in Gardiner. It was not until March 1830 that Mott gave up trying to live in the north.

From Georgia, Mott headed to Columbia, SC to help at Trinity Church, and then served as North Carolina's missionary to Lenoir County. Mott served in churches and taught in schools across North Carolina, first in eastern NC until 1836, and then western North Carolina where eastern families were summering. From 1837—1854 he served in Flat Rock and Hendersonville, Lincolnton and Lenoir in Caldwell County and briefly in Charlotte. While in Lenoir he also founded a boy's school called Belvoir. From 1855-1857 Mott left NC to serve at St. Paul's Church in Columbus, MS, but returned to serve as rector of St. Peter's Church, Charlotte, NC, 1857-1859. With the advent of the Civil War, Mott left St. Peter's to edit the Church Intelligencer, a newspaper reporting on activities and interests of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Confederate States of America. With the close of the war and the newspaper, the Rev. Thomas Mott retired to his home in eastern Catawba County where he died on 29 September 1869. He and his wife are buried in St. Luke's Episcopal Church Cemetery in Lincolnton, NC.

Winter Reading

I am in love with every Church and Mosque and Temple
and any kind of Shrine

Because I know it is there that people say the different names of the one God.

-- Hafiz

As your seminarian, I had the honor of preaching at St. Michael's on the first Sunday of Advent (December 1) and the first Sunday of Christmas (December 29). The scripture readings appointed for the day led me to the theme of each sermon. At the beginning of Advent, we focused on Pilgrimage. At the beginning of the season of Christmas, we focused on Poetry: Names and Images of God.

The lines from the 14th century Persian poet Hafiz bring together those two themes. The poet speaks of a journey in search of the one God. In the readings for Christmas, we heard that the different names of the one God range from Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace to the Word, Light of the World to the Holy Child born in a stable. I pointed out the name Abba! Father! a name for God which Paul uses in his letter to the Galatians, and which Jesus himself uses when he prays in the Garden of Gethsemane in the Gospel of Mark. Abba is the Aramaic word for Daddy, sometimes translated Beloved. This name makes us look at God in a new way. Each name is a fragment of the eternal, vast, unknowable whole that is God. For Hafiz, and for me, the many names of the one God come not only from the language and traditions of one's own familiar culture but also from the language and traditions of other places and other faiths.

I'd like to recommend two books about the many names

In my father's house are many mansions, a woodcut by Irving Amen

of God by authors I've encountered in my exploration of the Boston Theological Institute as part of my studies at Episcopal Divinity School:

Encountering God by Diana Eck. Diana Eck is a professor of comparative religion at Harvard Divinity School. Encountering God tells of her journey from her Methodist roots in Montana to her discovery of the many names of God in India. Professor Eck was involved in interfaith dialogue at the World Council of Churches for many years before founding and directing The Pluralism Project at Harvard. This book is both inspiring and enlightening. It is rich in ideas but not a difficult read.

My Neighbor's Faith: Stories of Interreligious Encounter, Growth and Transformation. Edited by Jennifer Peace, Or Rose and Gregory Mobley. I discovered this wonderful book at a panel presented by the Pluralism Project and the Center for the Study of World Religions at Harvard. The editors are professors of interfaith studies at Andover Newton Theological School and Hebrew College. The first-person stories are gathered into sections with titles like Encountering the Neighbor and Finding Fellow Travelers. The collection is a testimony to the Power of Stories and Loving Your Neighbor as Yourself.

What better way to pass a winter evening than with a good book? Either or both books would make wonderful choices. You can dip in and out of them, choosing a chapter or a story. You might be inspired to gather for a Winter Book Discussion. The stories in My Neighbor's Faith might inspire a storytelling or writing group. We all have stories of encounters with God. We all have the long winter evenings ahead of us.
